American Frozen Food Institute Elects New Board Officers

McLean, VA – The American Frozen Food Institute (AFFI) today announced the election of officers of the AFFI Board of Directors: Edward R. Flanagan of Jasper Wyman & Son, Inc. as chairman, Mark Dunn of the J.R. Simplot Co. as first vice chairman, Jon Nudi of General Mills, Inc. as second vice chairman and A. Ray Walker of the Patterson Vegetable Company, LLC as immediate past chairman.

“I am excited to welcome this strong slate of officers to their respective positions,” said AFFI President and CEO Kraig R. Naasz. “The frozen food industry produces nutritious, affordable foods that American families depend upon in their daily lives. Each of these individuals brings a wealth of experience and dedication to the frozen food industry, and their companies are representative of the broad array of quality foods consumers can find in their local frozen food aisle.”

Flanagan is president and CEO of Jasper Wyman & Son, Inc., a premier grower, processor and marketer of wild blueberries and other berry fruits. Dunn is vice president of government affairs for the J.R. Simplot Company, a privately owned agribusiness with operations in 23 states and 18 foreign countries. Nudi has been with General Mills, Inc. since 1993 and currently is the general manager of the Green Giant business unit in the company’s meals division. Walker is the president and CEO for Patterson Vegetable Company, LLC in Patterson, California, and served this past year as AFFI’s chairman of the board.
